The second battle between Jarvis and Cecil started with Jarvis casting his powerful flamestrike which found its mark this time.

But as soon as the flame touched Cecil, he landed a magnificent blow, that left Jarvis seeing only the colorless fields of death.

"I see you have returned once again Cecil. Did my blade not send you from these parts once before?"

"You did best me once in combat, but that will not happen again Thane of Findar!!"

Theodor Axehand pulled his trusty blade out once again, as did Cecil. This time Cecil would not fail.

There blades clashed again and again, with sparks of light flying in every direction. The battle seemed that it was going to last forever just when Cecil summoned strength unknown to him.

He thought to himself that this must be the strenght that the followers of Ebon Skull hold. I must be feeling their strenght now.

After this strange phenominon happened, Theodor didn't last much longer. For with one blow of Cecil's newly found power, Theodor laid dead upon the very lands that he governed. Cecil rolled his body over and reached for the Thanes weopon. A mighty mace it was. For it was magically blessed by some strange elf long ago.

After picking the mace
up, he stored it in his bag and called upon the words of recall.

Once
again he was in the
Darken fields of Caina.
His quest was
complete.....
But his story was only beginning.
